LIVINGSTON POLICE DEPARTMENT ANNUAL REPORT NARRATIVE

YEAR 2011

Prepared by: Darren Raney, Chief of Police

PERSONNEL RELATED

Department Staffing

The police department's budgeted staffing consists of 14 full-time sworn officers and 1 part-time parking enforcement officer. The structure consists of the chief, assistant chief, 3 sergeants, 6 patrol officers, two full time detectives, one school resource officer (SRO) and a parking enforcement officer. Staffing remains consistent from the previous year.

Officers Andrew Emanuel and Steve Kunnath completed one year probationary period of employment and were appointed to permanent status.

Officer John Leonard was promoted to the position of sergeant to fill the position vacated by Sgt. John Mathias who resigned in August.

Officer Randy Schott was hired in November to fill the vacant patrol officer position within the department.

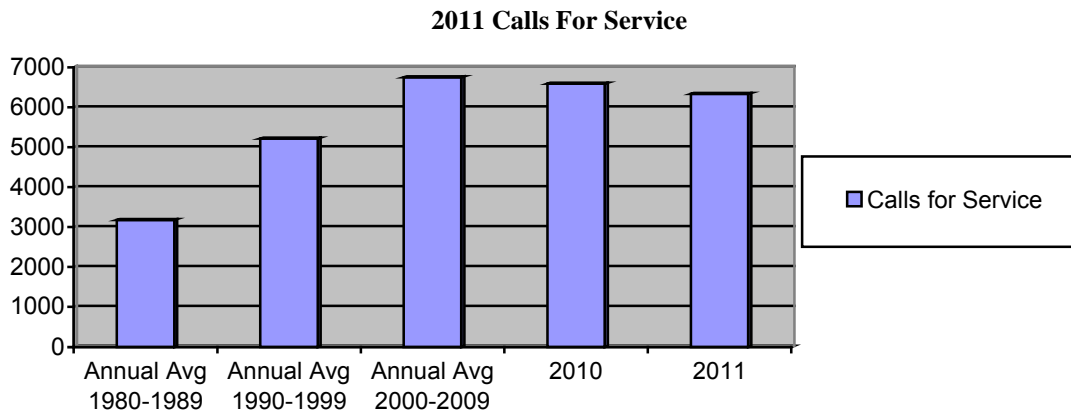

CITIZEN CALLS FOR SERVICE

The department received 6335 calls for service, 257 fewer than the previous year and continuing the fourth year of slight decline. Calls for service represent all calls received by the communications center that fall within our jurisdiction, including fire/EMS and animal related calls. Although officers may not respond to or handle all such calls, they do respond to many. Therefore all calls for service are included.

Calls for law enforcement and emergency service rose steadily beginning in the 1990's, increasing over 100% from the year 1990 (3414 calls) until peaking out in 2007 when 7385 calls were received. (Refer to Figure 1) The increase in the calls for service in the 1990's seemed to have reflected a period of growth and change in Livingston, following the closure of the BN Railroad shops in the mid 1980's. Annexation spurred new residential and commercial developments, the regional mining industry flourished and other factors attributed to significant social and economic vigor. Things have since leveled out. Based on the past few years, it appears that the number of calls for service has essentially stabilized. There are no indicators that calls for service will increase or decrease dramatically over the next few years, but such a prediction is contingent upon many unknown factors.

Types of Calls Received

Over 75% of calls for service are non criminal related (Refer to Figure 2). Dealing with the wide variety of situations outside the realm of criminal law is time consuming, but a necessary public service. Often faced with limited manpower, officers must prioritize their time and give attention to the most critical tasks while attempting to resolve lower priority calls. Imminent or anticipated threats to public safety will take precedence over property crimes or non criminal related complaints that pose no risk to any person.

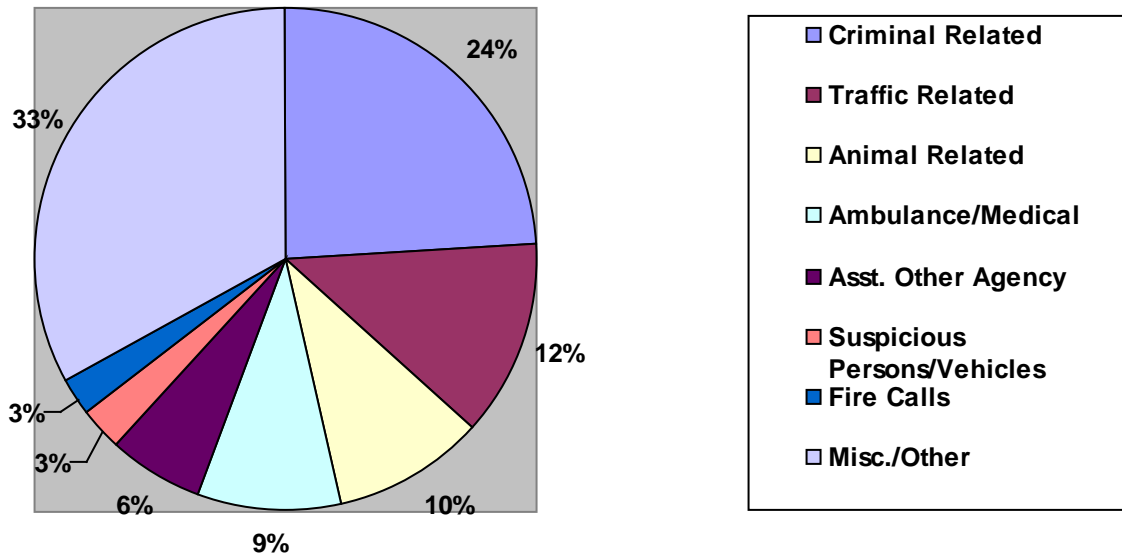

Criminal complaints include calls that do or could involve a violation of criminal law, and may result in arrest or a criminal investigation. Patrol officers are usually the first to respond and deal with immediate concerns. Investigation of serious crimes or those that will likely be time intensive are normally referred to a detective for follow-up investigation, allowing patrol officers to be available to respond to other calls.

Traffic complaints shown include officer generated arrests and formal enforcement action, but do not include traffic or parking citations issued that do not result in an arrest or formal investigation. Most are citizen complaints regarding traffic violations, parking problems, or abandoned/junk vehicles.

Animal related calls include domestic animal complaints, as well as wild animals and the increasing number of deer being hit by vehicles. Patrol officers respond to a variety of animal complaints, many of which are referred to the Animal Control Officer for follow-up. Per department policy, officers do not impound and transport dogs unless the Animal Control Officer is not available and the dog is vicious and there is an immediate need to impound the animal. Once a dog has been taken into possession, the officer is unable to transport an arrestee and is obligated to care for the dog until being released to the animal shelter or owner. After hours, this may take a great deal of time.

POLICE ACTIVITY

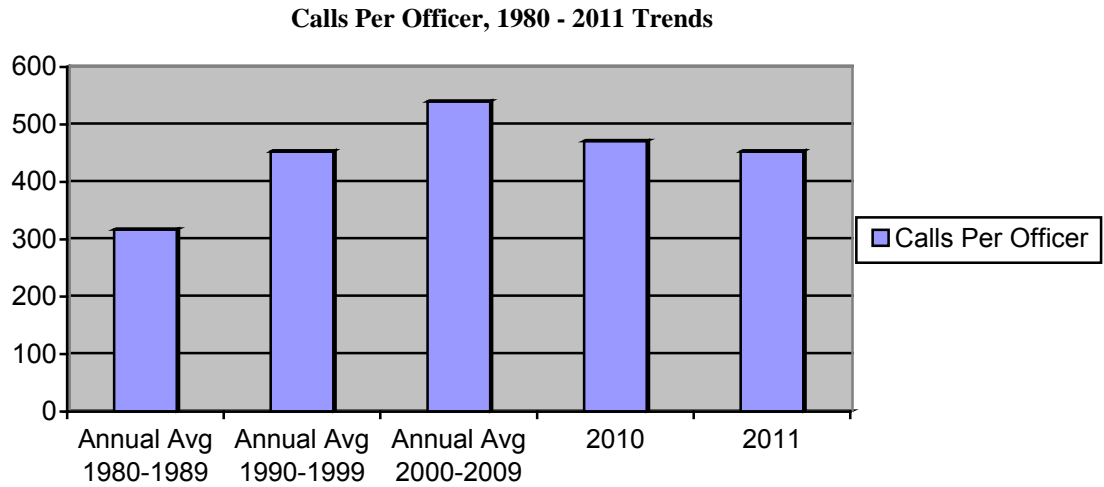

Patrol Officer Workload

Although patrol officers handle the vast majority of calls, for statistical purposes the annual average number of calls shown (Refer to Figure 3) is based on the number of sworn officers budgeted during the designated time periods, including the police chief, assistant chief, school resource officer and detective positions. There are times of staffing shortage due to vacation, sick leave, injury, training, and vacancies created by resignation, retirement or termination. In reality, the number of calls per patrol officer is actually much greater than shown.

In the 1980's, based on full staffing of 10 sworn officers as of 1989, officers averaged 317 calls per year. Despite adding 2 sworn positions in the 1990's, this average rose when the number of calls escalated rapidly during this time period. A new position was added in the fall of 2001 when the City entered into an agreement with the school district and a private citizen to fund a School Resource Officer position. Although the SRO was assigned to the schools during the school year, the position was available for patrol during the summer months to assist with the added workload. Despite this added position, the workload continued to grow.

The average number of calls per officer from 2000-2009 reflect a 70% increase from the 1980's and a 20% increase from the 1990's. A 14th sworn position was added in 2009, which attributed to a decline in the average numbers of calls per officer in 2010 and 2011. The 2011 calls for service per officer is fairly consistent with the 1990's, but still considerably higher than the 1980's and prior.

As the number of calls per officer increases, less time is available for routine patrol duties and traffic enforcement. Each call for service can be time consuming, some more so than others, considering response time and any follow-up work that needs to be done. Calls that require an investigation or that lead to an arrest require written reports to be generated and data entered into the computerized records management system, in addition to time dedicated to the investigation or activity related to the call. Increased workload also requires officers to prioritize calls and assess how much time to dedicate to minor issues or routine patrol activities.

Regardless of the number of calls for service officers must respond to, it is important to recognize that much of the time there are only 2 patrol officers on duty and there are times when only 1 is on duty. Most calls are non-threatening in nature. However, on duty officers are expected to immediately respond to whatever situation occurs, frequently dealing with hostile situations and dangerous persons alone or with inadequate assistance. Typical of smaller jurisdictions, our officers do not always benefit from relying on multiple officers to assist with a dangerous situation.

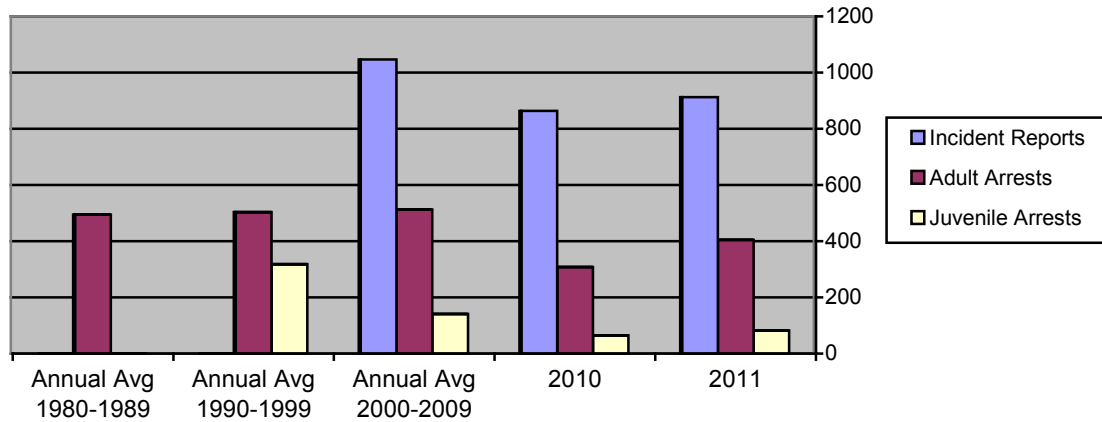

Investigations and Arrests

Officers generated 912 written incident reports, an increase from 864 the previous year. Incident Reports are calls for service that result in an arrest, criminal investigation or other police action requiring written investigative reports. Prior to 2000, Annual Reports only listed calls for service. Incident Reports were not documented separately until 2000 when the current computer software system was implemented in compliance with the FBI National Incident Based Reporting System.

404 custodial adult arrests were effected for various criminal offenses, up from 308 the previous year. Juvenile arrests (Youth Probation Referrals) numbered 82, compared to 65 the previous year. Although the number of juvenile arrests increased in 2011, arrests the past two years are considerably lower than the long term average.

Reports and Arrests, 1980 – 2011 Trends

Notes:

The 1980-1989 arrest numbers above include both adults and juveniles.

Prior to 2000 each criminal charge, or each warrant served, counted as an arrest. (an individual could be arrested on 3 warrants, or charged with 3 offenses, and it counted as 3 arrests.) Arrests numbers after 2000 reflect each separate time an individual was arrested, regardless of how many offenses he/she was charged with.

65 DUI related arrests were made, which was almost consistent with 64 arrests in 2010. There were 12% fewer domestic disturbance incidents responded to, while the number of arrests increased 46%. The decision to arrest on a partner/family member assault incident is based on criteria set forth in department policy and as guided by state law.

Citations issued for drug related offenses were up over 200% in 2011. Aggressive enforcement and proactive interdiction efforts were successful in this effort.

Sex offense investigations were up significantly in 2011, but remain fairly consistent with the average over the past 10 years.

Of the unattended human deaths that were investigated, 2 were concluded to have been the result of suicide. There were no homicides reported.

Major Crimes

In addition to 15 sexual assault cases, the detective's office investigated 20 fraud cases involving over $200,000 monetary loss. Some of these cases required involvement with federal law enforcement agencies. 7 assaults involving weapons were investigated, including one incident where 2 victims were stabbed and critically injured. The suspect was arrested at the scene and is being prosecuted for attempted deliberate homicide.

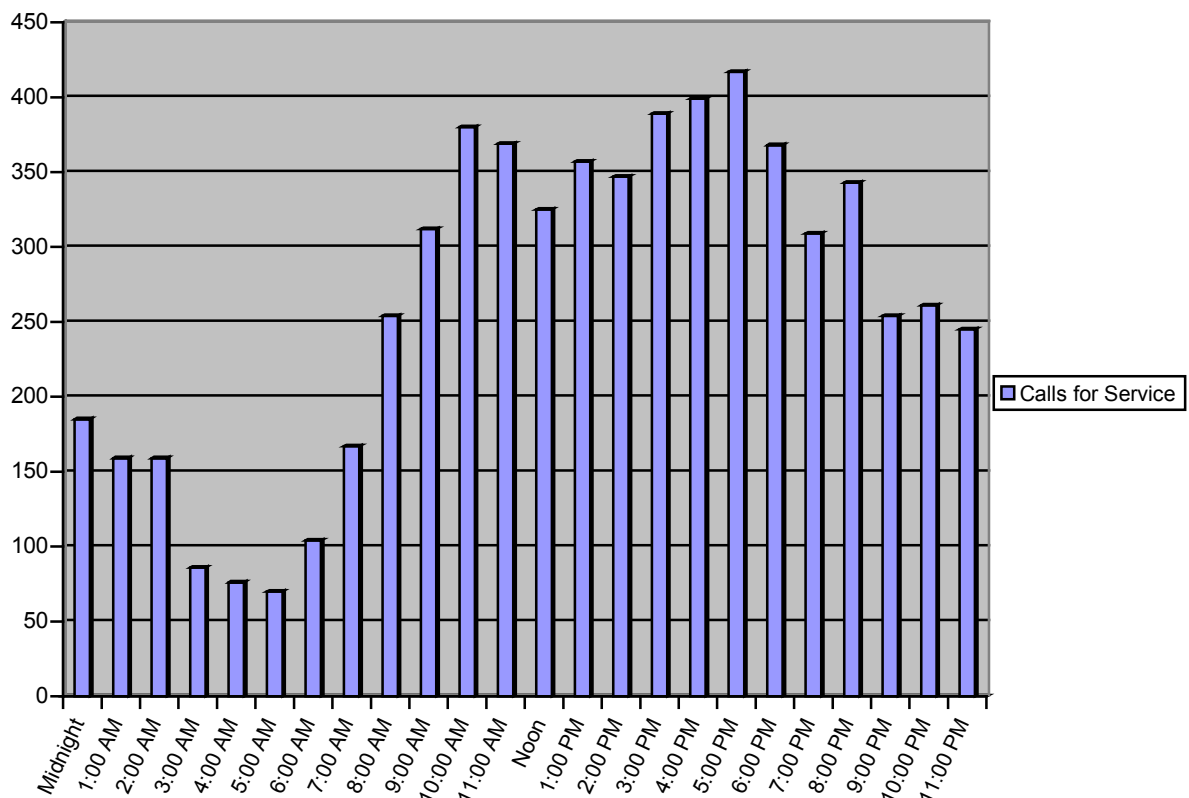

Calls Received by Time of Day

The peak times for calls were between 9:00 am and 9:00 pm, with the least activity between 3:00 am and 7:00 am (Refer to Figure 5). This pattern corresponds with the times of highest activity among citizens and is not surprising. However, calls received during the daytime hours are generally minor in nature (traffic complaints, animal complaints, parking problems, etc.) and the least time consuming on a per call basis.

Most custodial arrests are effected during the evening and nighttime hours, and calls during these times are generally more severe and time consuming. Patrol shifts are structured in an attempt to provide adequate coverage during times of high call volume and high severity.

Use of Force Incidents

Many force and equipment options are available to officers. They must choose an appropriate option based on the threat, either actual or perceived, including but not limited to: officer presence, verbal direction, physical control, chemical or inflammatory agents, impact weapons, Tasers (Electronic control devices), firearms, vehicles, and/or weapons of necessity or opportunity.

It is the policy of the Livingston Police Department that officers use the amount of force which is objectively reasonable to make an arrest, gain control of a situation, or to protect the officer or another from harm, given the facts and circumstances perceived by the officer at the time force is applied.

A separate written Use of Force Report is completed and documented, in addition to an incident report, in any of the following use of force incidents:

- Discharge of a firearm, accidentally or intentional, at or toward any person
- Striking of a subject with an impact weapon, or other weapon of necessity or opportunity.
- Discharge of a Taser.
- Use of force that results in injury to the subject, or complaints of injury.
- Use of physical or weaponless force against an individual to the extent it is likely to cause or lead to unforeseen injury, claim of injury or allegations of excessive force.
- Use of empty hand stunning or striking techniques.
- Discharge of a chemical weapons.
- Use of a vehicle as an offensive weapon.
- The use of a canine to apprehend a subject, resulting in a bite.
- The pointing of a weapon at any person, or drawing a weapon accompanied by verbal threats to use the weapon. This does not apply to the drawing of weapons in appropriate situations where officers do not point the weapon at any person or threaten to use the weapon.
- The use of leg restraints.

Separate Use of Force Reports are not required for weaponless hand to hand control techniques that have little or no chance of producing injuries when gaining control over or subduing non-compliant or resisting persons. These techniques include, but are not limited to, physical touching, escort holds, gripping or holding, frisking, or handcuffing.

PROPERTY CRIMES REPORTED

Theft, vandalism and burglary reports were down significantly in 2011, marking the lowest level in at least 30 years in each category. The number of theft reports dropped for the 4th year in a row, burglary reports were down 35% from 2010 and vandalism was down 23%.

Figure 6

There were 6 vehicles confirmed stolen from our jurisdiction (not including unauthorized use), compared to 7 in 2010, 5 in 2009, 11 in 2008, 19 in 2007, 12 in 2006 and 15 in 2005. Property crimes in general have steadily declined over the past 10 years.

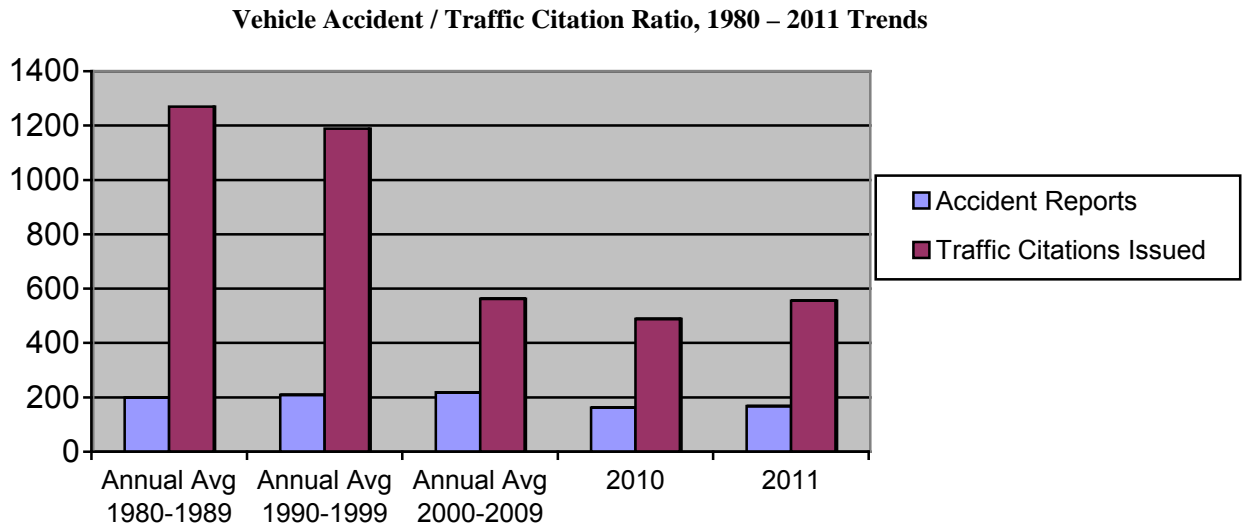

VEHICLE ACCIDENTS & TRAFFIC ENFORCEMENT

The number of citations issued for traffic related offenses increased by 11% from the previous year.

Officers completed 168 vehicle accident reports, fairly consistent with the previous 2 years and well below the 30+ year average. The number of vehicle accidents reported in years 2009 - 2011 were the lowest since at least 1972. Even though the City has assumed jurisdiction of more roads through annexation in recent years, the accident rate remained relatively static until 2009 when we experienced a significant reduction in the number of reported accidents.

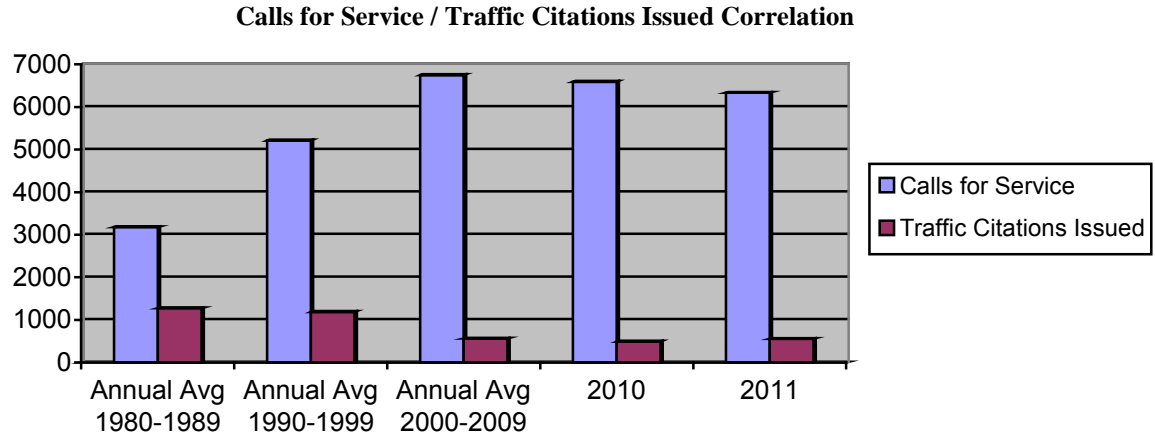

Based on local data, there is no correlation between the number of traffic citations issued and the number of vehicle accidents (Refer to Figure 7). Despite the number of traffic citations issued from 2000–2011 being less than 50% of the number issued from 1980- 1999, the accident rate remained stable and has even declined over the past 3 years.

Traffic enforcement remains an essential part of the police function, but has become a lesser priority than during earlier years. As the number of calls for service has increased, officers have less time for dedicated traffic enforcement (Refer to Figure 8). Aggressive traffic enforcement activity requires adequate staffing and free patrol time, or otherwise be given a higher priority over other duties. Patrol officers attempt to routinely enforce traffic laws as workload permits, focusing on areas of greatest concern in regards to public safety. The heaviest traveled streets have the most accidents, therefore are subject to increased traffic enforcement than less traveled streets with few or no accidents.

The department acquired a mobile speed monitoring trailer in 2009 through a federal grant. This trailer is used to monitor traffic activity (average speeds, highest speeds, vehicle count, etc.) and also used as a deterrent as it displays the speeds of approaching vehicles.

Over 60% of all reported accidents occurred on 5 streets (Refer to Figure 9). These streets are generally regulated by traffic control devices (stop signs and traffic lights). As could be expected, the heaviest traveled streets were prone to having the most accidents. Park Street, for instance, accounted for 27 accidents, or 21% of the total.

Highest Rated Accident Streets (Streets with 10 or More), 2011

Although accidents were distributed throughout the jurisdiction, most occurred in the central portion of the city where traffic is greatest. 65% of accidents that occurred on public streets were non intersection related, while 35% occurred within intersections. Inattentive driving remains a primary cause of most vehicle accidents.

Some specific areas were the location of multiple accidents, with 3 or more accidents occurring at the following locations.

- Park and B – 4 accidents
- Park and Geyser – 3 accidents
- 100 Block North F – 3 accidents
- 100 Block South E - 3 accidents
- Park Street between Loves and Travertine Lanes – 3 accidents

One fatality was reported in 2011.

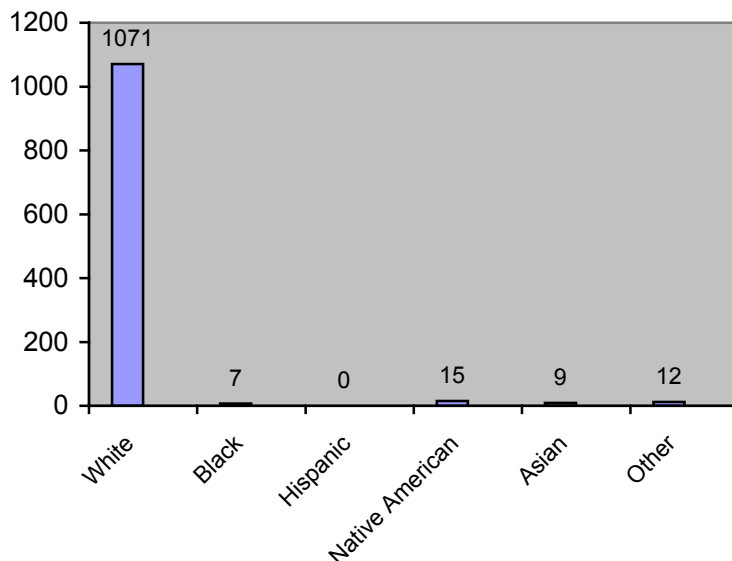

RACIAL PROFILING AND TRAFFIC STOP DATA

Pursuant to the requirements of 44-2-117 MCA, department policy requires the collection of data for each traffic stop that determines whether any officer has a pattern of stopping members of minority groups for violations of vehicle laws in a number disproportionate to the population of minority groups residing or traveling within our jurisdiction.

Officers are required to document the race or ethnicity of the driver and record the information into our records management system to be used to compile racial profiling data. The determination is based on their perception of the person's race. Figure 10 below shows the number of drivers, by race, that were stopped in 2011.

Distribution of Traffic Stops by Race, 2011

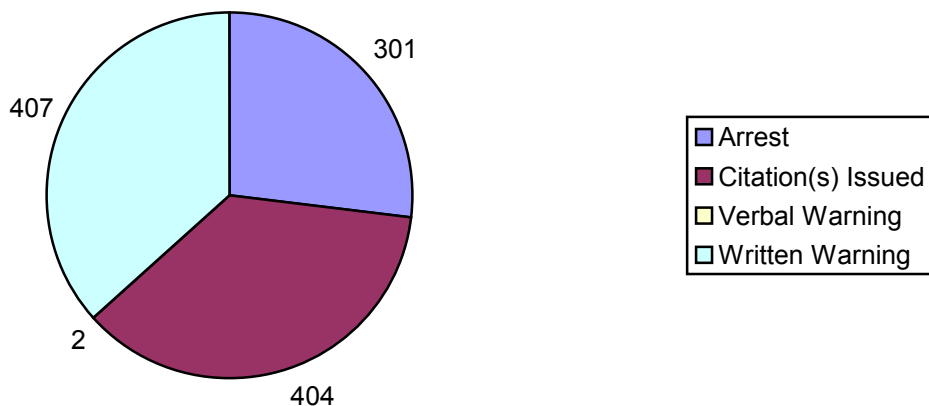

Consistent with the requirements of law, department policy provides for an annual review of this data. If the review reveals a pattern of any officer(s) of the Livingston Police Department stopping members of minority groups for violations of vehicle laws in a number disproportionate to the population of minority groups residing or traveling within our jurisdiction, an investigation must be conducted to determine whether the officer(s) routinely stop members of said minority groups for violations of vehicle laws as a pretext for investigating other violations of criminal law. The required review is incorporated into the Livingston Police Department Annual Report of Statistics, and this shall be considered the required review.

Detailed statistical information is included with this 2011 annual report, which includes information compiled from each traffic stop. One page contains racial profiling statistics from the entire department. There are also statistics from each individual officer who was employed during 2011. Upon review of these statistics, and having received no complaints alleging racial profiling from any person in 2011, there is no reason to conclude that officer(s) routinely stop members of minority groups for violations of vehicle laws as a pretext for investigating other violations of criminal law.

Figure 11 below shows the disposition of all traffic stops that were made, regardless of race. The decision to issue a warning or citation rests with the officer, based on the nature of the violation, the overall circumstances and other factors to be considered.

OTHER DUTIES AND ASSIGNMENTS

Bicycle Patrol

Several specially trained officers continued to conduct bicycle patrols throughout the City at various times of the day and night, depending on workload and the availability of enough officers to provide vehicle patrol. Bicycle patrols are very effective in proactive patrol, being stealthy and versatile. Officers can cover much more area than foot patrols, and are less visible to potential offenders than marked patrol vehicles. Bicycle patrols are also more approachable to citizens, affording enhanced interaction with the public.

Parking Enforcement

Our part time parking enforcement officer issued 1201 parking citations in the downtown district. The parking enforcement officer continues to maintain some of the responsibilities of managing the parking ticket computerized database and other clerical functions, allowing the City finance department to operate with minimal staffing. Although this has accommodated a reduction in workforce, the parking enforcement officer completes less enforcement rounds in the downtown district than in earlier years.

Missouri River Drug Task Force

The City of Livingston Police Department continued to be a member of the Missouri River Drug Task Force, a multi-jurisdictional effort funded by a federal grant with partial contributions from participating agencies. Pursuant to the agreement, the City of Livingston and Park County equally fund a portion of the costs necessary to provide one full time Park County deputy who works with the task force as a full time investigator. Our officers work closely with this investigator, sharing drug related intelligence and forwarding cases for follow up investigation by the task force. These joint efforts have been successful in prosecuting drug offenders in Livingston and Park County.

Canine Unit

The department maintains one canine unit, consisting of a specially trained and certified dog/handler team, which was placed into service in 2010. The canine is certified in narcotics detection, article search, tracking, building search, area search, officer protection and aggression control. During 2011, the canine deployments included; 33 drug sniffs, 4 tracking assignments, 2 searches, 2 bites (officer protection from aggressive or combative subjects) and 2 patrol assists (canine presence to deter aggression).

SUMMARY

While the number of call for service decreased, the number of investigative reports increased as did the number of arrests for both adults and juveniles. Property crimes within the community continued to decrease to record lows. There does not seem to be any pattern of concern regarding violent or property crimes. In fact, recent crime trends are very favorable to the citizens of our community. Investigating and preventing crimes against persons and property, and responding to public safety threats, are top priority. The police department will continue to focus on potential threats, aggressively respond to indications of criminal behavior and swiftly react to crimes that occur.

The department maintains an aggressive sexual and violent offender registration and compliance program, with 7 investigations conducted last year for failing to register. The detective's office monitors each offender quite closely to ensure that they remain compliant, and attempts to identify offenders who are non compliant. Offender information is disseminated to the public to the extent allowable by law. Offender information is displayed on the public awareness bulletin board in the hall of the law enforcement wing of the City County Building, as well as applicable notifications in the local newspaper when a new offender registers.

Budgetary constraints and equipment needs remain a primary concern. Effective law enforcement operations require appropriate staffing levels, proper training, and adequate equipment. Acquiring and maintaining sophisticated technology, such as computer software and hardware, digital and audio recording devices, in-car video cameras, weapons, etc. not only increases efficiency but is absolutely necessary to comply with public expectations and function in our modern society. Proper equipment is critical for officers to efficiency, effectively and safely perform their duties. Failure to provide adequate equipment and tools will result in substandard service, reduced efforts to combat crime, increased liability and put officers and the public at risk.

Our strongest component continues to be the men and women of this department who diligently perform the day to day tasks they are assigned to perform. They are well trained and have proven themselves prepared to do their jobs well. Each and every member of this department is dedicated to the needs of our community and stand ready to protect and serve. Department structure is adapted to best be able to address community needs and departmental goals, focusing on responding to calls for service, investigating crimes, and identifying and apprehending criminal offenders. On behalf of all members of the department, we look forward to proudly serving the citizens of Livingston in 2012 and beyond.

* Total Arrests (Adult and Juvenile Combined)

 Adult arrests prior to 2004 reflect all custodial arrests, and include the number of individual warrants served and charges filed (ie. if an individual was arrested on 3 warrants, or was charged with 3 different offenses, it was counted as 3 separate arrests.) In 2004 the statistics were changed to reflect the actual number of arrests made, regardless of how many offenses the offender was charged with. An arrest now represents each time an individual is booked or cited for a criminal offense.

ADULT ARRESTS

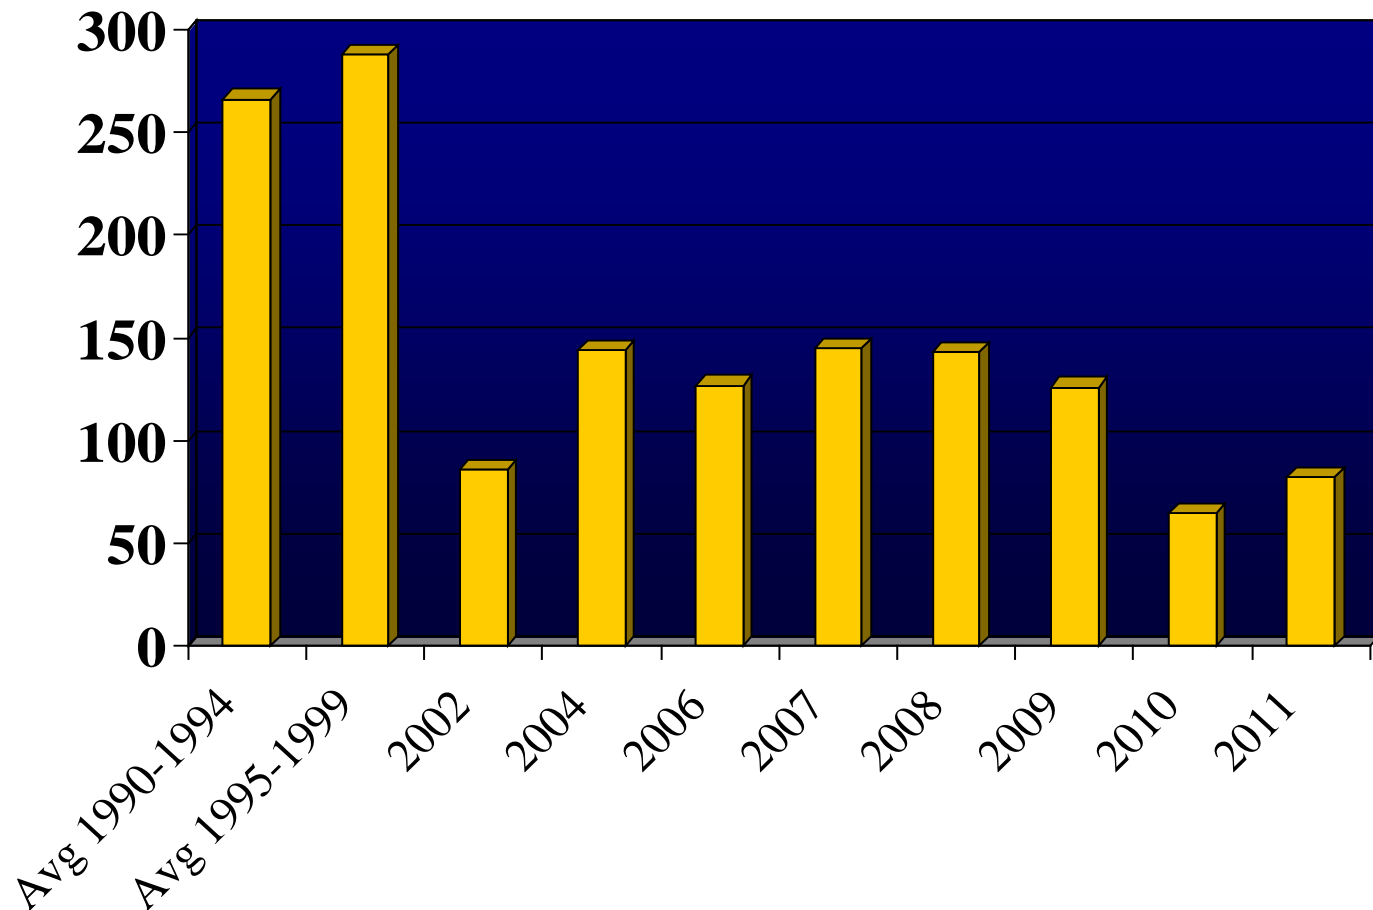

NOTES: Prior to 2004, the methodology for reporting annual arrest numbers included juveniles. Each criminal charge, or each warrant served, counted as an arrest. (an individual could be arrested on 3 warrants, or charged with 3 offenses, and it counted as 3 arrests.) Arrests numbers now reflect each separate time an individual was arrested, regardless of how many offenses he/she was charged with, and adult arrests are counted separately from juvenile arrests. To maintain consistency in reporting, adult arrest numbers prior to 2004 are not shown.

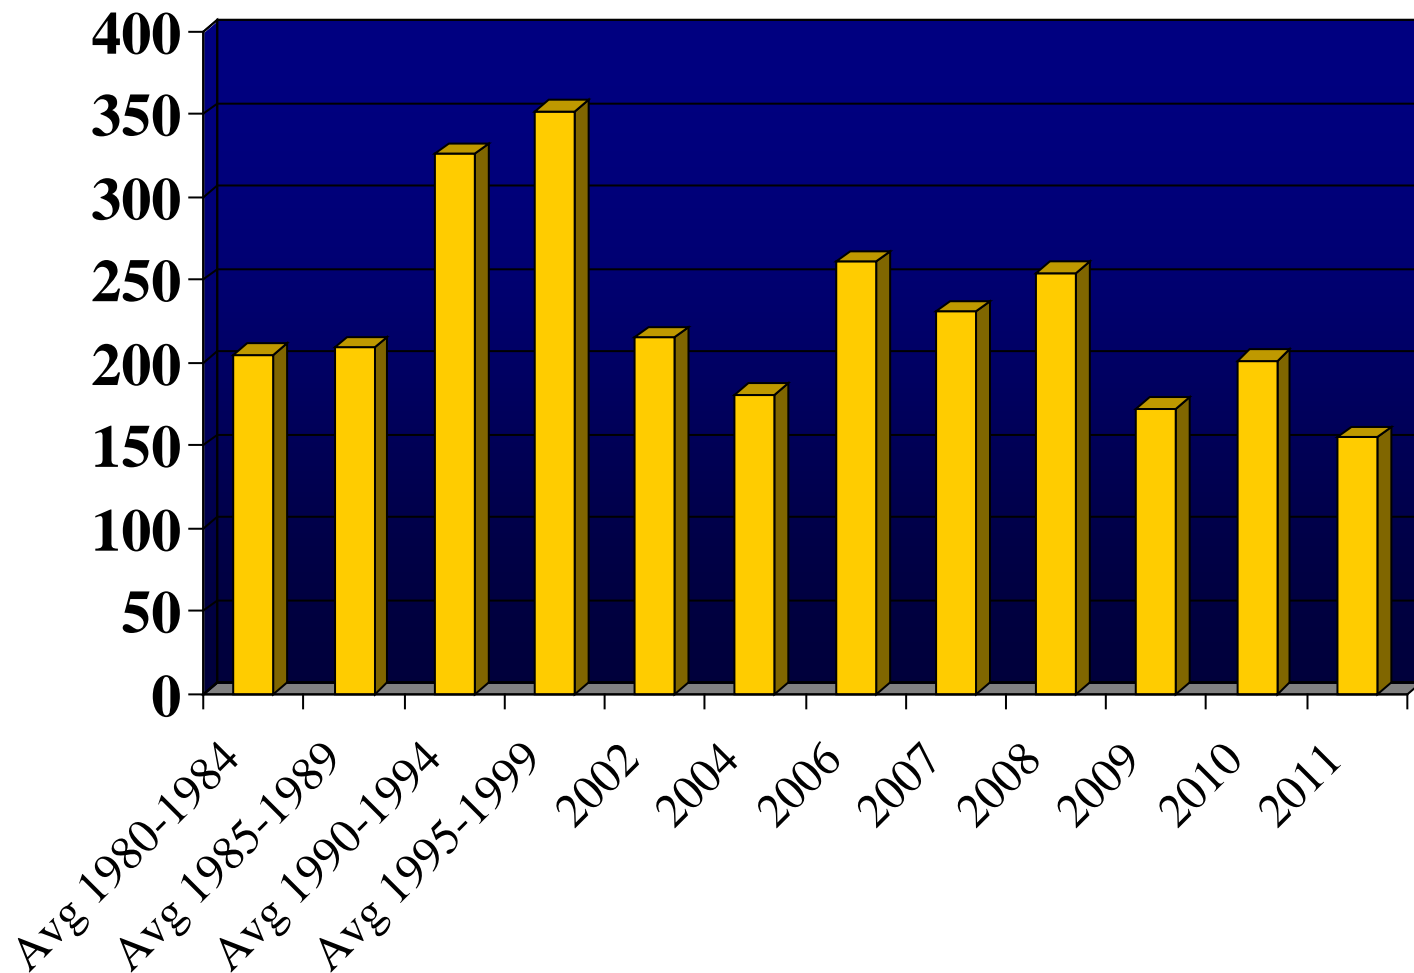

JUVENILE ARRESTS

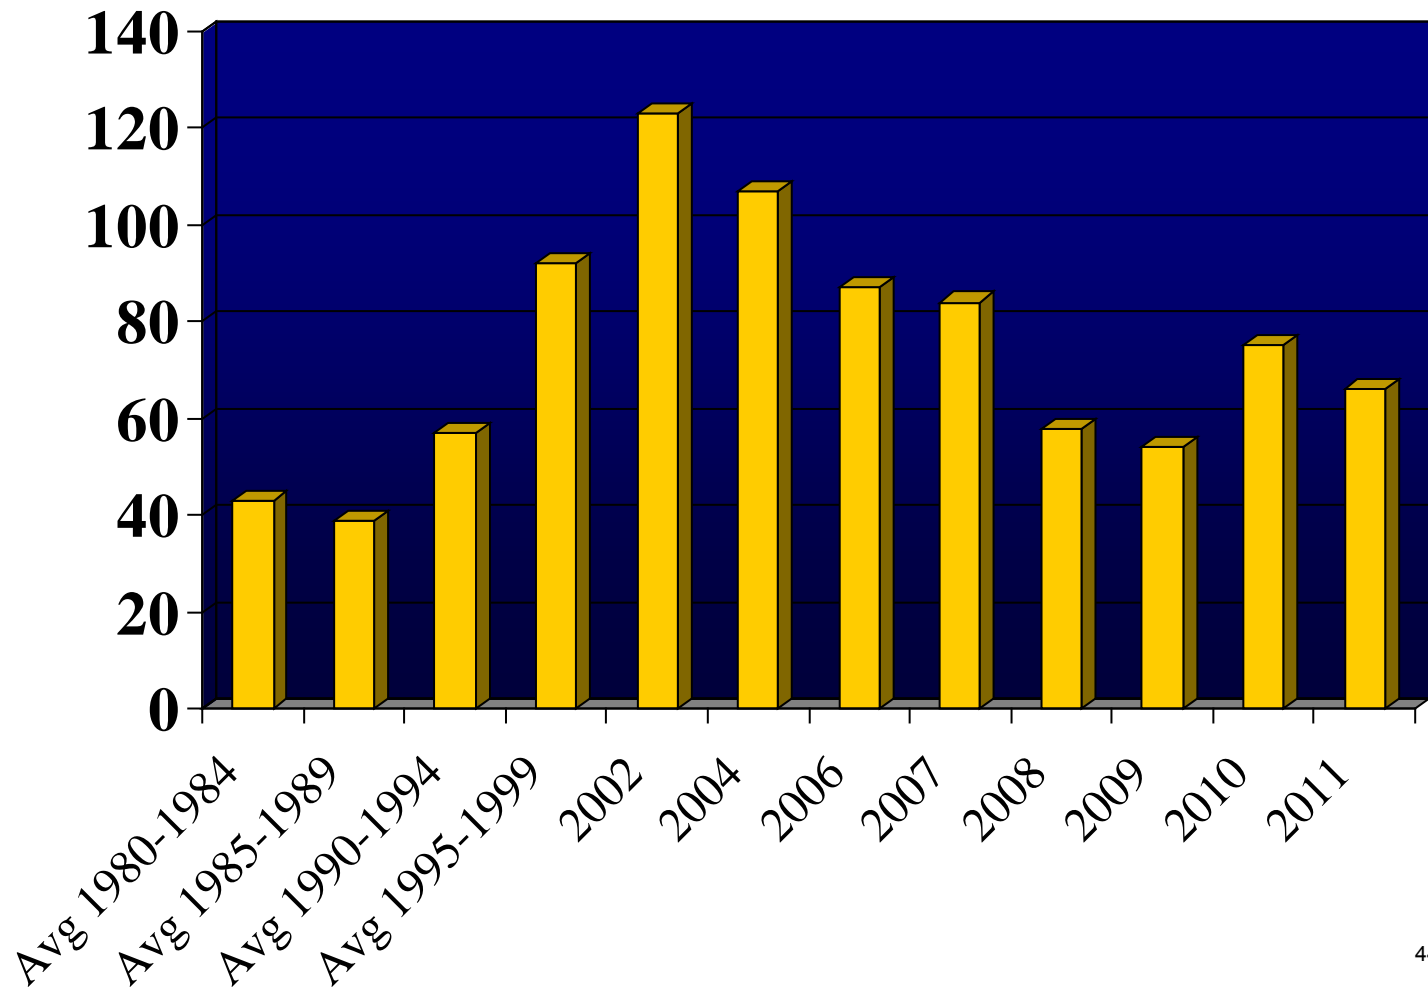

1995-1999 numbers include all offenses charged to juveniles who were arrested for criminal offenses (If a juvenile was arrested and charged with 3 offenses, it counted as 3 arrests). Beginning in 2002 the numbers reflect each individual juvenile arrest, regardless of how many offenses were charged.
